can pro 5.5 A: I did some research and I found a solution to my problem. I converted my vector to a raster. Below is the code: con Sunday, October 26, 2012 The Riddim: Beatfast in the Middle of the Night I didn't want to call this the "Hero's Journey in a Riddim" because The Hero's Journey is a book about myths and folk tales and Riddims are not usually about myth and folk tales. So it has to be something else. I like the word "beatfast" because it is exactly what it says on the box. It's beatfast in the middle of the night. The Riddim makes sense in that the big beats of the riddim are in the middle of the night. You know that from the title. What I do know is that it is long. I'm not sure how many bars or what constitutes a bar, but it's long. However, it's not a long song that goes on for thirty minutes and where you just keep skipping to the next song every time. This song has a beginning, a middle and an end. It's got a lot of words in it and sometimes there are short skits, it's like a movie in some ways. At the beginning of the song (The Beatfast in the Middle of the Night), Mr. Vegas comes in singing the chorus and raps. Chorus Beatfast in the middle of the night It's 12 am 'Don't need a love Love needs me' 'Wanna sleep tonight Wanna sleep tonight I wanna sleep tonight' The drums begin, the electric guitar joins in and it all comes together to build into an amazing crescendo. The chorus is very spiritual, very important to the creation of the hero and the hero must perform the chorus to his/her deity and so on. At the end of the chorus (At the End of The Night 82157476af
